€99,000

 Alethriko, Larnaca

This piece of agricultural land abides at the borders of the residential zone and as such, the prospect of becoming residential land during the next planningzone review is very high.

The land currently has no access to a public road but it is possible to register a right of way as the closest public road is located around 120m away.

The plot is currently used for growing cops but also has development potential since its located right on the boarder of the residential zone.
